Social Studies Licensure
(South Carolina – Grades 9-12)

Furman students completing a history major for South Carolina social studies licensure take additional courses in education and the social sciences (see sections IV and V). Students should follow the guidelines in this worksheet when selecting their history courses (i.e., completing the history major requirements listed in the Furman catalog will not necessarily result in licensure).

While planning your course work, note that:
1) certain FYS/FYW courses may also count for credit in the U.S. or European History sections depending on course focus;
2) at least 16 hours in the history major must be taken in courses numbered 200 or greater; and
3) at least one course in the history major must focus on the study of "pre-modern" history (HST101, 102, 103, 141, 151, 152, 155, 161, 165, 201, 203, 206, 207, or 208).
