

Quentin James is a junior Political Science & Afro American Studies double-major at Howard University in Washington, DC. He is 2005 EPL'er and former Furman University student. Recently Quentin finished working on President Barack Obama's presidential campaign. Quentin served as the Deputy Youth Vote Director in Ohio, organizing over 315,000 students at 32 colleges. At Ohio State University, America's largest university, voter turnout nearly doubled from the 2004 Presidential Election, increasing 94%. Quentin is 2005 Coca-Cola Scholar and was featured as one Ebony Magazine's 2006 Top High School Seniors. He currently works for Congresswoman Carolyn C. Kilpatrick of the 13th District of Michigan.