My decision to major in Spanish at Furman was probably the most impactful choice of my four years in college. It opened doors for me to work in Berea [SC], study in Madrid, Spain, and research in Medellín, Colombia. I built relationships with my professors and classmates - and learned to overcome a fear of discomfort while having fun. Not only did I learn a second language, but through that I learned who I am and how to better engage with the people around me.
