Step Three: Accept Terms and Conditions

Once in your Furman Financial Aid Dashboard, your required documents will be displayed on your home page. You may use the menu in the upper left-hand corner of the page to navigate to your Financial Aid Offer.

- For the first time logging into the Furman Financial Aid Dashboard, you will be asked to accept the Terms and Conditions:

Update Your Account

Terms & Conditions and Electronic Consent

When you accept a financial aid offer from the Office of Financial Aid, you enter into an agreement with Furman University. Below are Terms & Conditions associated with this agreement which you should understand before accepting financial assistance:

- Financial aid is offered for one academic year at a time, applied to your student account on a semester basis and based on information currently available.
- Financial aid is applied to a student's account after all requested information documents are received and processed by Furman University.
- At least half-time enrollment in a degree-seeking program is required for most federal and state aid (6 credits for an undergraduate student and 3 credits for a graduate student); full-time enrollment is required for Furman based aid (12 credits for an undergraduate student).
- The FAFSA must be completed each year to be considered for federal grants and/or loans, as well as state grants.
- The Department of Education verification process must be completed if selected.
- Financial aid recipients cannot be in default of federal or state loans or have overpayment of federal aid. Aid can be canceled if false or misleading information has been provided.
- Satisfactory academic progress (SAP) must be met at the end of each spring term. Additional information regarding Furman's standards can be found online.
- Changes in academic status, housing status and receipt of outside awards must be reported to the Office of Financial Aid.

Furman University reserves the right to review, revoke and/or cancel any aid at any time due to a change in eligibility (including, but not limited to: enrollment status, housing, academic status, major, financial need or program funding, verification information, lack of documentation, lack of academic progress or aid from other sources).

In addition to the above Terms & Conditions, I understand Furman University’s primary communication will be via student email (both personal and Furman email addresses). I agree to monitor both accounts and respond in a timely manner. I take responsibility for sharing important information and deadlines with my parents/guardians. If you wish to receive paper communications, you must notify the Office of Financial Aid in writing.

I agree to these Terms and Conditions

Submit Log Out

- Once the Terms and Conditions are accepted the student will be greeted by their home page.
- The top left hand is the Menu which will help the student navigate to different pages which are custom designed for their specific account. Students will only view pages applicable to their aid and requested items. If the student has been offered a loan, they will have a tab under the Menu (Top left) called “Accept Your Financial Aid Offer” (see second screenshot below).
Step Four: Accept your Financial Aid Offer

Second screenshot of Menu - “Accept Your Financial Aid Offer” – Only available to students offered Direct Loans.

To accept/decline loans, the student will see this page (loan awards/offerings will vary than screenshot). If accepting, the student can decrease their loan amount for each semester (cannot increase) and navigate to “status” and click “accept.” If declining the loan, the student will select “decline.” There are also two other options: “accept all” and “decline all” for easy convenience - Submit.
