UNIVERSITY

STUDENT REPRESENTATIVE, STUDENT ACCOUNTABILITY HEARING BOARD

PURPOSE OF THE STUDENT ACCOUNTABILITY HEARING BOARD

The Student Accountability Hearing Board is a hearing body within Furman University's student conduct process. The board reviews cases of alleged violations of the University's Student Conduct Code. The board reviews all relevant and available case materials, including but not limited to incident reports, witness statements, and police bodycam video.

An integral part of student leadership is the contributions to campus life; to serve others by making the campus and community a better place. When selected to serve on this board, student members are afforded an opportunity to provide leadership for the larger community by maintaining the values, standards, and expectations of Furman University. Because of this, members of the Student Accountability Hearing Board are required to actively promote responsible student conduct among the Furman community by providing accountability to the clearly outlined expectations in the Student Conduct Code. As a member of this board, you are expected to pursue excellence, integrity, reliability, and respect and concern for others.

THE POSITION

Five individuals serve on a Student Accountability Hearing Board: one (1) conduct official, one (1) faculty/staff representative, and three (3) student representatives. The faculty/staff and student representatives serve as primary voting members when determining whether a student is responsible for a student conduct violation. If a student is found responsible, this same group determines appropriate action items for a student to complete as a result of a student conduct hearing.

Student representative positions on the Student Accountability Hearing Board are one-year appointments with the opportunity to reapply, provided all qualifications are met.
