

Cougar New Tech Expo

By Mandy Hathcock

Cougar New Tech Entrepreneurial Academy hosted its second annual Student Expo on Thursday, February 26. Dr. Melissa Crosby, CNT Dean, along with parents, students, facilitators and business leaders gathered in the miniauditorium of Colleton County High. The welcome speech was given by Robert Dent, a ninth grade director's advisory council member. Ann Carmichael, Dean of USC Salk, gave information regarding the programs and benefits our local college has to offer.

In the hallways, guests were greeted by businesses and organizations with tables and booths set up giving their support to the program. In classrooms, students, guided by their facilitators, gave presentations of various projects they have completed this school term. Guests were given the opportunity to experience the culture, teaching and technology that empowers, engages and enables New Tech students to be well on their way to greatness. For more information about the Cougar New Tech program, you may contact Dr. Melissa Crosby at mcrosby@colletonsd.org or Jean Nettles at jnettles@cougarnewtech.com.

A display of the student self-portraits created in GeoArt. Photos by Joshua Hathcock

Special to The Colletonian (741 Posts)

