

Preparing for the Cougar New Tech Expo

Mayme Medlock
Cougar New Tech

Right now, the “Green Hall” is busy with preparations! Cougar New Tech is hosting its second annual expo on February 26th. The expo is an event open to all members of the community where Cougar New Tech gets a chance to demonstrate its accomplishments. During the expo, featured projects from CNT classes are presented by students. Each group prepares a presentation that not only demonstrates what they did during the project but what they learned from it.

This year, I am part of the group that is presenting “There’s an App for That!” from DAPS (Digital Media and Physical Science). This project is centered on learning how to create an app and understanding the periodic table. We created a mobile app that acted as a study tool for our fellow students.

My group is not the only one that started our presentation. New Tech students are creating informative yet interesting presentations for the expo that will certainly be enjoyed. From informative animations to hilarious skits, the expo is bound to be an entertaining night for the audience and the presenters!

All CNT students urge the community to visit our expo.

Special to The Colletonian (741 Posts)

